PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 22 — (UP) — Czechoslovakia's cabinet resigned today in favor of an all national government, including army chieftains, as 80,000 workers, men and women, boys and girls, tramped the main streets of Prague, singing the national anthem and shouting:

"Give us arms! Give us arms!"

Premier Milan Hodza and his colleagues presented their requests to President Edouard Benes at his palace as the crowds tramped back and forth outside, demanding that they be permitted to fight against the dismemberment of the Republic.

The cabinet ministers asked the President to form a national government representing all elements of the national life, including army officers, to steer the country through its crisis, to fight against further encroachments by its neighbors; and to form a new united "Second Czechoslovakia."

Ministers agreed to continue in office until a new government was formed, probably within a few hours.

AUTUMN ARRIVES AT NOON FRIDAY; MERCURY AT 49

Although Autumn does not make its official landing until Friday noon, Circleville residents continued to shiver Thursday with the mercury remaining in the fifties. Warmer temperatures were forecast for Friday.

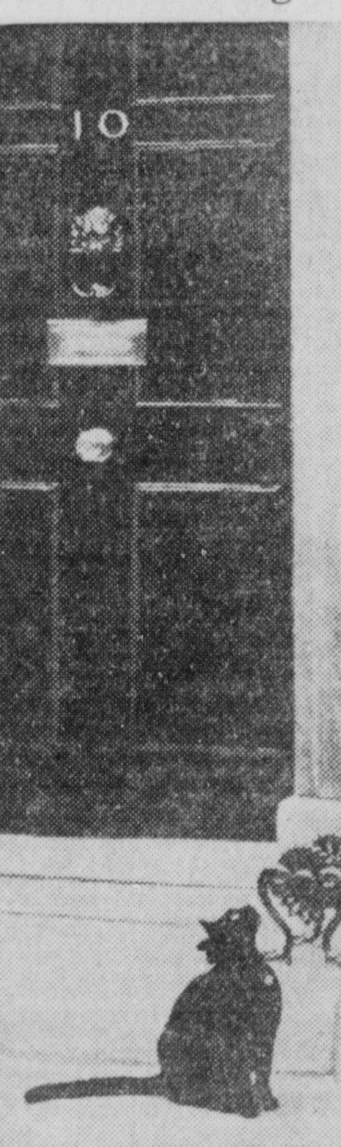

Wednesday's highest temperature was 57, the same as recorded Thursday noon. After the wind and rain Wednesday night the mercury slumped to 49 degrees. Rainfall measured only .19 of an inch.

With the arrival of Autumn the days and nights should be theoretically of equal length. The sun will rise Friday at 6:19 a. m. and set at 6:29 p. m. This leaves the day 20 minutes short. The equinox will really arrive Tuesday, when the day will be only one minute longer than the night.

Bad Luck Sign?

FOR those who believe in the "black cat" as a sign of bad luck, this picture made in front of No. 10 Downing street, in London, home of the British prime minister, may be symbolic. It is inside this building that members of the British and French cabinet reached a decision in the current Czechoslovakian minority crisis. The cat is a household pet.

HUNGARY SEEKS 700,000 LIVING IN CZECH LAND

BUDAPEST, Sept. 22 — (UP) — The Hungarian minister at Prague delivered a note to the Czechoslovak foreign office today announcing that Hungary expected treatment to its minority equal to that accorded the Sudeten Germans.

This would mean the separation of the approximately 700,000 Hungarians in Czechoslovakia from the Czechoslovak state, and the turning over of territory to Hungary.

The government's note, a Demarche (a diplomatic "step" or "course") was sent to Prague this morning by special airplane. In announcing that it had been delivered at Prague, the government said that when Czechoslovak Kamil Krofta received it from the Hungarian minister he remarked that a similar note already had been received from Poland.

Hungary has asked Italy, Germany and Poland to support her minority claims. Britain and France were informed that the Hungarian government is counting on no one-sided advantages being given to any nationality to the disadvantage of Hungarians in Czechoslovakia.

LITTLE BOY DIES ENROUTE TO CITY FOR TREATMENT

James Franklin Hardy, 29 month old son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hardy, Wayne township, died Thursday noon while being removed from his home to Berger hospital for treatment.

The father said the child had been ill since last Friday. He said he believed that something the child had eaten had poisoned him.

Besides the parents the child is survived by five brothers and sisters, Delbert, Paul, Marguerite, Robert and Wanda. The body was removed to the Mader funeral home.

Services will probably be held Saturday.

SQUIRREL HAS PARTY

The police department and Mayor W. B. Cady had a new pet at the city building Thursday. A fox squirrel put in his appearance at the city building and was feasted with peanuts.

PARLEY OVER TWO HOURS

Movement May Be Started
Early Friday; Early
Possession Asked

GODESBERG, Sept. 22 — (UP) — Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Fuehrer Adolf Hitler discussed details of the partition of Czechoslovakia while the Sudeten Free Corps and the German police awaited the order to march in and take over the Sudeten area.

Informed citizens said Hitler would insist that an early hour, perhaps tomorrow, must be set for the movement into Sudetenland.

Conference Long One

The conference at the Dreesen hotel on the banks of the Rhine lasted more than two and a half hours.

VIENNA, Sept. 22 — (UP) — German police are ready at a moment's notice to march into Sudeten territory, it was revealed today when many auto bus loads of police from southern Austria rolled into Vienna.

The troops will enter Czechoslovakia, when given the order, to preserve order in the same way they moved into Austria from the Reich on March 12.

The public appeared ready to hold the second victory celebration within a little over six months. Almost everyone was convinced that it is now a matter of only

Foreign Front

PRAGUE — Premier Milan Hodza's cabinet offers resignation to clear way for national government, including army. Thousands shouting "give us arms!" Demonstrate in streets.

GODESBERG — Adolf Hitler and Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain meet at Godesberg to complete formalities of Nazi triumph and, if possible, to lay the basis for consolidation of European peace.

CZECHO — GERMAN FRONTIER — Sudeten take over Eger and other German-speaking areas on Czech frontier. German flags wave and crowds parade in streets.

BUDAPEST — Hungary joins Poland in demanding formally that Czechoslovak dismemberment be completed by surrender of Magyar and Polish minority regions at once.

LONDON — Labor and liberal parties, aided by some conservatives, organize opposition to Chamberlain policy in regard to Sudetenland and to giving British guarantees of future Czech borders.

PARIS — Opposition of left wing parties to Czech deal mounts under leadership of former Premier Leon Blum.

No Pikers, These Bandits!

French Outlaws Rob Train Of $1,890,000
In Gold Bars Enroute To Belgium

MARSEILLES, France, Sept. 22 — (UP) — Ten bandits robbed a train of 168 gold bars valued at $1,890,000 today.

The bandits attacked the Marseilles-Avignon freight train near St. Barthemy and held the crew at revolver point. An express agent attempted to draw his gun and was wounded.

The bandits then unloaded the gold, contained in express packages, from a car into their waiting trucks and escaped.

An accomplice aboard the train apparently stopped it by pulling the emergency cord at the point where his confederates were waiting. All highways were blocked but no trace was found of the bandits. The gold was enroute to Belgium from the African Congo.

RAILROAD SALARY SLASH SHOWDOWN IS LOOMING

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 — (UP) — Railway management and labor headed toward a showdown on the 15 percent wage reduction controversy today amid new nationwide strike threats.

Rail labor leaders predicted that their 900,000 members would vote to strike by an overwhelming majority and said the date for the walkout would be fixed Monday in Chicago.

Both groups admitted that it would be impossible to agree on a legislative program to rehabilitate the railroads until the dispute over the $250,000,000 annual wage cut is settled.

FRENCH CABINET MEMBERS QUIT

Three, Disgruntled Over
Czech Action, Leave
Daladier's Side

PARIS, Sept. 22 — (UP) — Three members of Premier Edouard Daladier's cabinet put their resignations in his hands today in protest over the partition of Czechoslovakia, but acceptance of the resignations was delayed.

Letters of resignation were left with Daladier by Georges Mandel, minister of colonies; Paul Reynaud, justice; and Auguste Champetier de Ribes, pensions.

The ministers conferred with the premier after they and several other cabinet members reluctant to accept the Czech deal had discussed the advisability of resigning.

Daladier did not accept the resignations pending the outcome of today's conferences between Adolf Hitler and Neville Chamberlain at Godesberg.

FIELD OPERATIVE DISCUSSES RED CROSS PROGRAM

Miss Mabel Culter, general field representative of the American Red Cross, was in Circleville Wednesday discussing plans with Earl A. Smith, roll call chairman, and Miss Agnes R. Butch, executive secretary, for the annual roll call to open Nov. 11 and end Thanksgiving Day.

Miss Culter stressed the necessity for early preparedness for the drive. The quota for Pickaway county's Red Cross chapter is 1000 members. Mr. Smith hopes to reach the goal and if possible surpass the quota.

The Ohio Welfare conference, which will be held this year in Columbus, Oct. 3 to 7, will be of particular interest to Red Cross chapters.

Again this year a study course in disaster relief will be conducted by Robert E. Bondy, national director of disaster relief of the American Red Cross. The course will be held Monday and Tuesday, Oct. 3 and 4, and will cover aspects of disaster relief of interest not only to Red Cross chapters but also to social workers of other agencies.

The Red Cross Kindred group luncheon will be held on Wednesday, Oct. 5, at 1 p. m. E. P. Leonard, chairman of the Franklin county chapter, will preside.

SAWYER SCORES SCHORR, LEADER OF OHIO G. O. P.

Democratic Nominee Pledges
Good Government As State Convention Begins

BRICKER JUST "BOSSSED"

Passing Reference Made To Primary Contest; Davey
"Boycott" Rumored

COLUMBUS, Sept. 22 — (UP) — Dedicating himself anew to "honest, efficient and wholesome" government, Charles Sawyer, Democratic candidate for governor, today answered the Republican challenge that Democrats cannot effectively institute reforms in state government, in his keynote speech at the Democratic state convention.

Passing over the primary fight with Governor Davey as a closed chapter, Sawyer directed his fire against John W. Bricker, the Republican nominee, charging he was "bossed by Ed D. Schorr, Cincinnati, Republican state chairman."

"There is no Republican party in the state of Ohio today," Sawyer said. "It is Ed Schorr. My opponent claims he is ordained to make a change at Columbus and talks a lot about political bosses. He names three or four so-called Democratic bosses and says he will not be bossed by them. Of course he will not, but he will be bossed by Ed Schorr."

All Up to Schorr

"He does not make a move; he does not write a speech; he does not decide anything except under the dictation of Ed Schorr. There has never been such quiescence of bossism as has been exhibited by Mr. Bricker's boss."

Sawyer spoke to a convention still tense over the prospect of a fight between his friends and supporters of Governor Davey and after reports circulated that the governor ordered state employees to "boycott" the convention. He made only passing references to the primary, however.

Sawyer shared the platform with Sen. Robert J. Bulkley who praised accomplishments and intentions of the New Deal and defended it against the charge of hostility to private business.

YOUNG DODGE'S WIDOW PREPARES TO OPPOSE WILL

DETROIT, Sept. 22 — (UP) — Possibility of a fight over the $10,000,000 estate of the late Daniel G. Dodge, drowned in Georgian Bay Aug. 15 two weeks after his marriage, was seen today as his widow retained an attorney.

The lawyer, Paul Oren, said he had been instructed by 19-year-old Laurine McDonald Dodge, to determine and obtain her just rights as widow from the estate. Oren inferred Mrs. Dodge, daughter of a tugboat captain and former Gore Bay, Ont., telephone operator, was dissatisfied with the $250,000 left her in the will.

The will, signed by young Dodge last July 25, a week before he was married to the Ontario girl, is scheduled for hearing in probate court on Oct. 10.

Under the will, the bulk of the estate was left to young Dodge's mother, Mrs. Alfred G. Wilson, widow of John F. Dodge, founder of an automobile fortune.

TIME CHANGES SUNDAY

Daylight saving time, in effect in many parts of the East since April, will end at 2 a. m. Sunday, Sept. 25. At that time clocks in all places observing Daylight time will be turned back one hour, putting them back on Standard time.

MRS. J. M. KIRWIN DIES FOLLOWING 19 DAY ILLNESS

Mrs. Ella G. Kirwin, 66, wife of John M. Kirwin, 904 S. Court street, died at 3:45 p. m. Wednesday in St. Francis hospital, Columbus, following an illness of 19 days.

Mrs. Kirwin had been receiving treatment for undulant fever. Although her condition had been serious during the last few days, her death came as a great shock to the community in which she was widely known and highly respected.

A native of Circleville, Mrs. Kirwin was born May 20, 1872, a daughter of James and Bridget Donnelly Moore. She was a graduate of St. Joseph's Catholic school. On Sept. 9, 1896 she married Mr. Kirwin, the present cashier of the Norfolk & Western railway in Circleville. Besides her husband, Mrs. Kirwin leaves six sons. Two sons died in infancy.

The sons are the Rev. Father James M. Kirwin and John A. Kirwin of Port Arthur, Texas; Pat J. Kirwin, Cincinnati newspaperman, and Joseph, Paul and Thomas, at home, the latter a senior student at Ohio State university, Columbus.

Mrs. Kirwin is survived also by three sisters, Mrs. Katherine Cummings and Mrs. Mary Haughran of Columbus, and Mrs. Sarah M. Goeller, S. Court street, and two brothers, John Moore, E. Mill street, and Martin Moore, S. Scioto street.

A requiem high mass will be intoned in St. Joseph's church at 9 a. m. Saturday. Her son, Father Kirwin, will sing the mass and will be assisted in the service by the Rev. Fr. J. J. Herman, pastor of St. Joseph's church.

Burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery in charge of M. S. Rinehart. The six sons will serve as pallbearers.

CITY POLICEMEN ASK DAY'S LEAVE IN EACH WEEK

Members of the police department, Wednesday, sent a letter to council urging that legislation be passed providing each man one day or night off duty each week.

Under present regulations the patrolmen work seven days or nights each week.

The communication explained that the "free" day or night would be subject to cancellation by the chief of police in case of an emergency or illness of a member of the force. It was signed by Police Chief William McCrady and Patrolmen Fred Fitzpatrick, A. H. Shasteen, George Green, Carl Radcliff and Charles Mumaw.

RAIN FAILS TO HALT JAPS IN 19 DAY ILLNESS

SHANGHAI, Sept. 22 — (UP) — Japanese troops advanced through heavy rain today as their bombing planes blasted a path into Sinyang and Hangsin, 70 miles from Hankow.

Japanese advances from the front reported steady progress in the general offensive as it moved on westward from Loshan, strategic point in recent fighting.

Chinese claimed that their troops had made a furious counter offensive against Japanese in the Nanchang sector, scoring important victories against Tokyo's 101st division and silencing Japanese batteries at Mahweiling, North of Tchan. A dozen militarily important villages were reported captured.

STATE NEARS END OF SERINO TRIAL FOR CONN DEATH

CADIZ, Sept. 22 — (UP) — The state, prosecuting Peter Serino, of Pittsburgh, for the murder of an Ohio highway patrolman, was expected to end its case today with several witnesses corroborating testimony of Charles Ford, who turned state's witness.

Ford, accused with Serino and two others of the slaying of Patrolman George Conn, was expected to be recalled for further cross-examination, but only under restrictions by Judge Barclay W. Moore.

The prosecution's star witness, who named Bernard Masulla, another of those charged and also of Pittsburgh, as the "trigger man" in the killing, revealed details of a white-slavery ring operated by those accused of Conn's murder.

Ford said that Serino fired also at Conn, "but I don't know whether he hit him." He insisted that "I'm telling the truth now" as defense counsel hammered at what he termed discrepancies in his earlier confession and his court testimony.

The prosecution placed stress on Ford's identification of a covering used to hide Conn's body in the brush beside the highway near Freeport, O.

The death toll in the hurricane which devastated Long Island, New England and parts of New York, New Jersey and Quebec mounted hourly today with the known dead reaching 157 at noon.

The toll of known dead by states:

Massachusetts (including 11 drowned in floods preceding the hurricane)—57. Connecticut (including 18 drowned in floods preceding the hurricane)—39.

New York State (including 20 killed on Long Island)—28.

Rhode Island—22.

New Hampshire—8.

New Jersey—1.

Quebec (Montreal)—2. Upwards of 150 persons were missing in New England and Long Island. As rescuers searched wreckage over the six state area it appeared likely that the death toll would soar.

Damage in Millions
Damage to homes, shipping, crops, highways, communications and parks was estimated in excess of $100,000,000.

The hurricane struck first on Long Island, ripping South Shore resort communities to pieces. Fifteen of the island's dead were killed at Westhampton, where luxurious homes built on sand dunes were blown into the sea. Bodies were found for miles along the beach.

The 90-mile-an-hour wind piled up a 40-foot tidal wave which demolished everything in its path. The hurricane swept across the island and struck Fort Jefferson with full force. The "P rk City," a steam ferry operating between Port Jefferson and Bridgeport, Conn., was blown off its course and was unreported for more than six hours with 20 passengers and a crew of five. The vessel was found nine miles off Stratford.

JAMESTOWN, R. I., Sept. 22 — (UP) — Fire headquarters reported today that seven children — four of them members of the same family — were trapped and drowned when a tidal wave engulfed a school bus.

The victims were Joseph, Teresa, Dorothy and Eunice Matteo; John and Constantine Geodis, and Marion Gagliis.

GEN. WESTOVER DEATH PROBED BY ARMY BOARD

Chief Of Air Corps And Flying Aide Killed On West Coast

AIR CURRENT IS BLAMED

Victim Had Just Presented
Safety Awards To March
Field Men

BURBANK, Cal., Sept. 22 — (UP)—An official army board of inquiry convened today to investigate the airplane crash in which Maj. Gen. Oscar Westover, 55 year old chief of the Army Air Corps, and his mechanic were killed.

Col. Harvey S. Burwell came here from March field to take charge of the investigation. Headquarters were established in the offices of the Lockheed aircraft plant which Westover was on his way to visit yesterday afternoon when his small Northrop monoplane crashed in the lawn of a Burbank home.

Numerous theories were advanced as to possible causes of the crash, but officials had accepted none as explaining definitely the reason for the plane's suddenly going out of control.

Air Current Blamed

The motor appeared to be in perfect order until the crash. Maj. Joseph L. Stromme, one of Westover's aides, believe that the plane might have been caught in a "thermal air current" which often prevails on exceptionally warm days such as yesterday was.

The throttle was completely open, indicating that the pilot, probably Westover, was making a desperate effort to level the ship off. Instead, the plane went into a power dive and at the impact was traveling at a speed of 150 miles per hour or more. The ignition had been turned off. Although the plane developed motor trouble and was forced down at Denver a week ago, it was repaired and no trouble had been experienced recently.

Authorities said it was impossible to determine definitely whether Westover or Sgt. Sam Hynes, 39, of Bolling Field, Va., was at the controls. It was Westover's hobby to fly his own plane, which led to the belief that he was the pilot.

Ironically Westover, a few hours before his death, had presented safety awards to March field's 19th bombardment squadron for flying an entire year without a fatality.

On Inspection Tour
Westover had come to California to inspect new army planes and, incidentally, to attend the American Legion convention at Los Angeles. Yesterday he inspected nine bombers at the Vultee factory at Downey, 30 miles from Burbank, and had planned to inspect 13 army transports at the Lockheed factory.

LARGE CROWDS ATTENDING ST. PAUL A. M. E. SERVICES

Large crowds have been attending anniversary services being conducted in St. Paul A. M. E. church. Speakers have been the Revs. H. M. White, Frankfort, and William Moorehead, Chillicothe. The program continues through Sunday, Sept. 25. All day services will be held Sunday.

The Rev. E. Foster, Dayton, and the Rev. S. S. Davis, pastor of the Circleville Evangelical church, will be the Sunday speakers.

Thursday was observed as Emancipation Day. The program included a parade and contests. The Rev. Mr. Moorehead will speak. Music will be furnished by a choir from Chillicothe.

CITY FUND BALANCES

Balances in the various city funds, reported to council Wednesday night, were: general $575.52, library $7,437.29, auto street repair $28.33, gasoline tax $569.87, hospital $343.60, and disposal fund, $55,913.86.

In a recent auto accident she regained her sight, she says, but is given only a year to live. The boy is pictured with his foster mother.

Godesberg, Confab Scene, Filled With Legends Of Dragon, Prince, Princess

GODESBERG, Germany, Sept. 22.—(UP)—Adolf Hitler and Neville Chamberlain meet today near a Rhineland hilltop colored by centuries of Germanic history and legend.

The bright colors of the Union Jack shook in the breeze beside the Nazi swastika flags as this "Hill of the Gods" put on modern dress for another historic moment. But behind the lines of steel-helmeted storm troops and beyond the freshly painted little steam ferry pushing through the waters of the Rhine is a background of great events in the history of Godesberg.

From his suite in a luxurious hotel on Petersburg, one of the famous seven mountains keeping the "watch on the Rhine," Chamberlain may look southward along the valley to the lonely Drachenfels or Rock of the Dragons.

Dragon Once Lived There

There, according to legend dating from the advent of Christianity in the Rhine valley, lived a huge dragon in a cave known as the Dragon's Hall. Christianity already had reached the western bank of the river, but the heathens on the eastern side where the dragon lived resisted. One day they captured a princess from the west bank and offered her in sacrifice bound to the "Wotan Tree" and with her hair decked with flowers to please the dragon. Only a young prince of their tribe opposed the sacrifice.

The dragon drew near, spitting fire and smoke. The princess drew from her breast a golden crucifix and held it before her. The beast reared back in horror, stumbled and crashed backwards over the cliff and into the rushing river Rhine. The tribesmen, overcome with awe, accepted Christianity and built a castle atop the rock for the princess and her prince.

Used By Robber Barons
During the middle ages, from which the present castle ruins date, the hill was the fortress of robber barons. Godesberg (Hill of the Gods) was called Wodans.

FRENCH AFRAID HITLER TO ASK NEW CONCESSION

PARIS, Sept. 22.—(UP)—The entire Paris press voiced fear today that Adolf Hitler would make new demands of British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain at Godesberg today.

The press warned that France would not accept a single addition to the British-French plan to give Germany the Sudeten regions of Czechoslovakia. Editorials pointed out that the French mutual defense treaties with Czechoslovakia and Soviet Russia still existed. It was energetically stressed that France and Czechoslovakia had gone the limit in concessions to save peace.

The government organ, Petit Parisien said:

"Godesberg should be favorable if Germany wants peace. Chamberlain must tell Hitler it would be vain to advance further. The limits cannot be surpassed. It is necessary that there be no new demands or everything will be lost."

The Journal said: "If Hitler is really a statesman he will recall that Bismarck's greatest merit was that he knew moderation in victory."

FOUCH BOND REDUCED

Bond for James Fouch, 39, E. Ohio street, was reduced Wednesday from $500 to $200 in Common Pleas court by Judge Meeker Terwilliger. Fouch was bound to the grand jury on a charge of driving when intoxicated after waiving examination in police court. He provided the reduced bond.

STATE FUNDS RECEIVED

Pickaway county received $2,741.36 Wednesday from the state in matching funds for September relief. The county also received $900.41 for the poor relief fund from excise tax on beer and admissions.

COUNCIL MOVES TO ISSUE BONDS FOR ROAD WORK

Resolution Citing Need Adopted And Sent To Auditor

BILLS OF $3,150 DUE $7,000 To Be Provided To Pay Share For W. P. A. Project

Council took the first step Wednesday evening to issue $7,000 worth of bonds to meet the city's share of street improvements being made in connection with W. P. A. A resolution was adopted declaring the necessity of the issue and asking Miss Lillian Young, city auditor, to certify to council the maximum maturity on the bonds. About $3,150 is needed to pay bills on the Washington and Mill street work, already completed. About $3,250 will be needed to finish N. Pickaway street, now being improved. Seyfert avenue is to be improved also. An ordinance was passed by council under suspension of rules appropriating $200 to the fund for physicians and $300 for burials and ambulance services in the relief department. These funds had been exhausted.

AT THE GRAND
Blending swift action with spectacular riding and the romantic melodies of the old west, Bob Baker's new Universal music film "Black Bandit," opens Friday at the Grand Theatre.
"Goodbye Broadway," which opens Friday at the Grand Theatre is one of the most hilarious comedies of the current season. Universal, which started the vogue for screwy comedy which is now sweeping the screen with "My Man Godfrey," has gone in for down-to-earth humor in this one, and the effect is pure delight.

AT THE CLIFTONA
Richard Cromwell, star of the Republic Picture, "Come on, Leathernecks!" which opens Friday on a Double Bill with "Gene Autry" at the Cliftona Theatre, is widely known in California as a portrait painter, and is considered one of the best in the motion picture industry.
In "Come on, Leathernecks!" Dick plays the role of an all-American football player from West Point, who joins the Marine Corps after his graduation. Miss Hunt is seen as his sweetheart, whom he meets while stationed in the Philippine Islands.
The picture has an excellent supporting cast including Edward Brophy, Robert Warwick, Bruce MacFarlane, Howard Hickman, Anthony Warde, Harry Strang, and Alan Mathews.

I read the other day where one of our law-makers wanted to put through a bill to make doctors use plain English names instead of latin so that people'd know what was the matter with 'em and what they was takin' for it.
I had one uncle who kept losin' jobs on account of ill health and finally his wife sent him to the doctor. My uncle says, "Now Doc, don't give me none of them technical latin names for my ailment—tell me in plain English what's the matter with me."
The doctor examined him and says, "All right, I'll tell you—you're jest plain lazy." My uncle says, "All right but can you give me a technical name for it so I can tell my wife?"

Workman Loses Hand In Brick Plant Accident

By S. D. FRIDLEY
Ashville, Phone 79
A distressing accident occurred this week when Alfred Green suffered the loss of a hand. He was engaged with others in dismantling the old smoke stack at the once brick making plant at Bell's Sliding. He was working on the inside of the stack and an upper layer of bricks or lining fell without warning on his wrist severing the hand. First aid was given and Schlegel's ambulance removed him to St. Francis hospital, Columbus.

On sight-seeing trip. Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Cline, Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Prushing, and Guy Cline, have returned having spent the greater part of last week motoring through several Southern states. Among places of interest they visited were the Smoky Mountains, Lookout Mountain, Chickamauga Park, Norris and Chickamauga dams. While in Chattanooga they visited with Mrs. Cline's nephew, Mr. Marion Shook and wife. Mr. Shook will be remembered by many in Ashville, as he made his home here with his grandmother for a few years.

In honor of her sister, Miss Marian Louise Stoker who recently recovered from a serious illness, Mrs. John R. Messick entertained at her home. The evening was spent in playing "golddigger" after which the hostess served a two course lunch to the following: Mrs. Grace Moore, Mrs. Gladys Rush, Mrs. Lulu Malone, Miss Elizabeth Reid, Miss Hazel Wells, Miss Jerry Cline, Mrs. Frances Grant, Mrs. Clara Creager, Mrs. Zelma Topolosky, Mrs. Mildred Messick, Master Charles Messick, electricians, cameramen and others muttered their directions thickly, due to an epidemic of sore tongues among players in "The Last Gangster," current attraction at the Circle Theatre. Edward G. Robinson, an enthusiastic smoker, appeared in the morning with a big box and presented fine new pipes to Director Edward Ludwig and every male member of cast and crew. All promptly began breaking in new pipes. By three in the afternoon every male tongue on the set was sore. Director Ludwig could hardly speak. Lionel Stander muttered. Robinson smoked his old broken-in pipes and regarded the rest joyfully.

MOTORIST ASKS CITY TO REPAIR DAMAGED AUTO

E. F. Mauger, residing East of Circleville, has filed a claim with the city asking repairs to his auto damaged Sept. 13 when it struck a trestle in Watt street.
Mr. Mauger contends that there were no lighted lanterns or flares on the trestle. He said one garage gave him an estimate of $12.35 to repair his car. Another garage agreed to make the repairs for $10.46.

Councilman referred the claim to the laws and claims committee for investigation.

ARMY MEN MAY TAKE POSITIONS IN GOVERNMENT

Thousands Of Workers Fill Prague's Streets Asking Chance To Fight

spector general of the army, loomed as the strong man of the new government, which was expected to be a virtual military dictatorship. Circles close to the President said Syrový was almost sure to be either premier or minister of interior—the law and order authority.

A hero of the Czech legionnaires of World War fame, Syrový fought with Russian troops against Germans in the war. He wears a black patch over his left eye socket. He lost the eye in Siberia. Syrový is best known of all army men to the public.

Gen. Ludvík Krejčí, chief of staff of the army, was expected to be a member of the cabinet.

Syrový broadcast an appeal to the populace for calm and maintenance of discipline.

All Must Do Duty

"Everyone should do his duty," Syrový said. "The worker should remain at his work bench and the soldier by his arms. Only in this way can we remain strong."

Peter Zenkl, lord mayor of Prague, was one of several possible choices for the premiership. If he is chosen, Syrový would become minister of the interior. Kamil Krofta probably would remain foreign minister.

Quarters close to President Benes said the military character of the government would be aimed mainly at preserving internal order.

Zenkl, who is 40, is a national socialist and a civil service career man. He has been active in politics since the founding of the Republic.

The first news that a government was planned came when the lord mayor broadcast an appeal for order at 11:15 a. m.

"I can understand your pain," he told the people. "But I appeal for discipline. Disorder would aid our enemies. We have full confidence in our president. We must make it possible for him to lead the Republic to a new life. I appeal to you urgently for order."

"If others desert us in these fateful hours that is no reason for us to desert our own cause. We will be strong through discipline. The situation is difficult. It is so difficult that we can not afford to lose our cool heads and our strong hearts. We have shown vital courage at a difficult time. It is our duty now to do everything so that his courage will be broken by no one."

"Loyalty has been shown to the state in demonstrations in various parts of the Republic. We can not tolerate that our strength be endangered through our own hot headedness. This suffering is common to us all. But discipline must be assured."

JESSE T. STUMP DIES AT 62 IN DARBY TOWNSHIP

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 p. m. at the home for Jesse T. Stump, 62, who died of complications Wednesday at his residence in Darby township, north of Derby. Burial will be in the Mt. Sterling cemetery. Mr. Stump was a farmer.

Surviving are his widow, Louise; two daughters, Mary Louise and Annabelle, at home, and two sisters, Mrs. Mary Mogan, at the home, and Mrs. O. W. Curry of Frankfort.

The late Dr. A. L. Stump was a brother.

necticut the worst disaster in that state's history.

Fire followed the storm in several Connecticut cities, and damage throughout the ravished area was estimated at more than $100,000,000.

The toll was certain to mount because a number of New England towns — particularly, New London, Conn., Pawtucket, R. I., Petersboro, N. H.—had been so wrecked that communications still were out and there were no reports, beyond fragmentary ones by short wave radio, from them.

Fires were raging in New London and Petersboro.

In Massachusetts, Gov. Charles F. Hurley proclaimed "a state of emergency" called out the National Guard and appointed food and fuel administrators to act with military powers.

In Rhode Island, Gov. Albert E. Quinn took comparable emergency measures, appealed to Massachusetts for serums for the homeless.

In Connecticut, police patrolled devastated areas enforcing order sternly.

The hurricane raged up through the New England states yesterday afternoon and last night and early today it was centered in the New Hampshire hills headed, greatly diminished in force, toward the St. Lawrence valley where it was expected to blow itself out.

Accompanied by torrential rain, it raised the already swollen Merrimac and Connecticut rivers in Connecticut and smaller rivers in Massachusetts which were threatening to leave their banks, causing disastrous floods.

Tremendous tides pounded the coast and a tidal wave swept 1,000 feet into Providence, R. I., flooding streets eight to 25 feet deep. Providence is New England's second largest city.

Rescue workers, organized by the National Red Cross and the coast guard, which were in full charge of succoring the survivors, feared that the isolated New England villages and towns would prove to be scenes of great devastation. They were frantically trying to reach them early today.

Thousands were crowded into refugee camps, many of them ill. Towns were evacuated. The 3,000 residents of Hadley, Mass., imperiled by the rising Connecticut river, were moved to Amherst by National Guardsmen.

Red Cross workers were inoculating refugees with typhoid serum. Supplies were dwindling fast. Gov. Robert E. Quinn of Rhode Island appealed to Massachusetts

"He said the administration was right in giving 'special care to the welfare of the lowly.' Sawyer made it plain that his objectives were the same as those during the primary."

"I have not altered by one inch my determination to fulfill the pledges of the primary," he said. "The issues in this campaign, in

New York City's 7,000,000 inhabitants, who barely escaped the worst of the storm, were drenched with a 4½ inch rain. The wind blew 75 miles an hour. Lights failed for two hours last night in two sections of the city. Subway service was halted for a time and thousands were stranded. Two of the four Manhattan-Hudson tubes were closed by water. Commuters were unable to reach Long Island.

The Queen Mary was held at her dock all night with 868 passengers. The Ile De France arrived shortly before the worst of the wind, listing as the gale lashed its port side. The Staten Island ferryboat Knickerbocker, loaded with 200 passengers, tipped at its dock on the battery and almost overturned.

Suburban Westchester county was hard hit. Roads were blocked, bridges washed out, an estimated 10,000 trees uprooted. More than 100 homes were flooded in New Rochelle. Fifty persons were evacuated from Williston park.

Failure of power and telephone service left doctors to perform emergency operations by searchlight and cut residents of many towns off from communication with their police.

Looting was reported in a few areas.

Storm Described

One of the first towns struck was West Hampton, Long Island. Eight were dead and 30 missing there today.

Wrecked houses were swept as much as a mile inland. Police Chief Stephen Teller and Sgt. Timothy Robinson used a floating roof for a raft and pulled 40 persons from the water. All 42 of them floated four hours before they were rescued.

The town's water supply was shut off during the night on orders of the board of health. Drinking water was taken to the town in milk cans from 20 miles away. Throughout the night, searchers sloshed through the debris hunting bodies, with lanterns and candles providing their only light.

At Long Beach, on the South shore of Nassau county, Dr. George Reiss, chief surgeon at the spite of the red herrings the opposition will drag across the trail, will be drawn on one line alone: does Ohio want to join in the thrilling adventure of fighting for good government under a governor and state officials with sleeves rolled up—or slide back into the old ways pursued by the Republican opposition in years gone by?"

He accused Bricker in one of his speeches of raising the "spectre of the spillover" by allegedly promising to fire all present state employees amenable to dismissal. "In other words," Sawyer said, "he makes plain that he proposes to install partisanship in its most rabid and vicious form."

Sawyer renewed his pledge to seek creation of a general public accounting system and a central purchasing system, reforms proposed during the senate graft investigation, and likewise pledged freedom of civil service employees "from every kind of coercion and pressure."

He also asked appointment of a bi-partisan highway commission and appointment of the state conservation commissioner by the conservation council as means for removing those departments from political influence.

Social Security Touched

He indirectly attacked the Davey administration for the row with the Social Security board over old age pensions and said the Democratic party must "cooperate 100 percent" with the federal government in such matters.

Of his labor position Sawyer said Bricker was "merely parroting what was said against me" in the primary and that on constructive state issues was "repeating word for word what I promised and planned with reference to the government of Ohio."

On the labor side he noted he had been endorsed by leaders of the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization. He again repudiated "un-American" endorsements and said government should help to achieve stability in relations between labor and capital.

Of the national administration, Senator Bulkley said it had demonstrated its capacity for leadership at a time when the country was distressed economically.

"Under the new responsibilities so recognized and the operation of new agencies so set up is the thought that our government is something more than a guardian of law and order, and that it must take definite affirmative action for the general welfare," he said.

a few days before the Sudeten country in effect becomes a part of Germany. It would necessarily be a few weeks before Sudetenland becomes a legal part of Germany.

A majority of the population of Austria believed that the taking over of the Sudetenland will be comparatively bloodless, but others feared that the extremist pro-Soviet faction of the Czech army might at the last minute gain an upper hand and precipitate a civil war.

March May Be Okeched

In such an eventuality, there was speculation as to whether Britain and France would approve a march by Germany into Czechoslovakia to prevent what was viewed here as a possible "massacre" of Sudetens by unorganized rioters.

GRAND THEATRE TO OFFER STYLE REVUE ON OCT. 4

Management of the Grand theatre, Thursday, announced that a style revue will be conducted in the theatre Tuesday, Oct. 4, in cooperation with Luckoff's store. Ten Circleville girls will act as models.

The revue will be entitled "My Lucky Star Style Revue" since the movie "My Lucky Star" will be appearing at that time.

HEART ATTACK FATAL TO WILLIAM A. MILLER

Heart attack is blamed for the death of William A. Miller, 57, of Chillicothe Route 2, in Jefferson township at a farm gate near his residence Tuesday about noon. An investigation was made by Coroner R. E. Oliver of Ross county.

Mr. Miller had worked during the morning on a bridge construction job near his farm. At the noon hour he started to drive some mules out of the pasture field to the farm gate. When he failed to appear for lunch his wife investigated and found the body. He was a brother of John Miller of near Circleville.

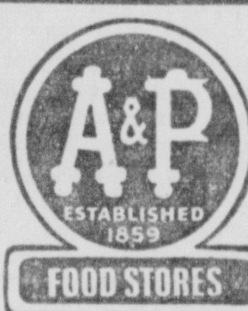

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2:30 p. m. in a Chillicothe funeral home. Burial will be in Greenlawn cemetery.

SCOUTS REORGANIZE

New officers of Scout troops, No. 158, sponsored by the American Legion are Ralph Schumm and Pat Turner, assistant Scoutmasters; David Orr, senior patrol leader; Roy Norris, Jr., quartermaster; Walter Leist, scribe; Lloyd Jones, Jr., custodian of cabin, and Tom Shea, bugler. The election was held Tuesday night. Ralph Heistand is Scoutmaster.

NEFF CHILD DIES

Weldon Robert Neff, three month old son of Leslie and Christina Neff, Monroe township, died Wednesday afternoon in Berger hospital. The baby had undergone an operation Tuesday. Besides the parents two sisters survive. Funeral services were held in the home, near Hebron, Thursday afternoon with burial in Mt. Sterling cemetery.

RED CROSS AND COAST GUARDS AID SUFFERERS

Equipment And Man-Power Rushed To New England After Storm Hits

2,500 U. S. MEN ACTIVE

Disrupted Communications Prevent Survey Of Eastern Shore

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 — (UP)—Coast guard and American Red Cross headquarters rushed all available equipment and man-power into New England today to aid victims of flood and hurricane.

The coast guard operated on an emergency basis—2,500 of its 9,000 men and officers already doing rescue and relief work in the stricken area. The unit at Norfolk, Va., was ordered to be ready for dispatch North, if necessary, at a moment's notice.

The Red Cross sent additional disaster relief workers from its headquarters to assist field representatives and local committees in providing food and shelter.

Acting Administrator Aubrey Williams of the Works Progress Administration announced that preparations were being made for W. P. A. workers to help in cleanup work after the storm blows itself out.

Areas Inspected

Rhode Island W. P. A. Administrator Farrell D. Coyle reported that W. P. A. workers were ready to begin emergency work immediately on subsidence of the storm. W. P. A. headquarters announced that R. C. Branlon, W. P. A. field representative for New York and New England, was inspecting the Massachusetts flood areas.

Red Cross workers sent from here and their destinations were: Walter Wessellus, New London, Conn.; Nat Wilson, Providence, R. I.; Harold Foy, George Myer, John Maloney and Burst Pester, Long Island, N. Y.; Robert Shepard, Hartford, Conn.; Wade Downing, Massachusetts.

Naval communications and short wave radio kept Red Cross headquarters in contact with developments, but officials said that neither supplies nor funds would be sent until a complete survey has been made by field representatives.

Disrupted communication facilities delayed a comprehensive survey by coast guard. Damage to its stations from New York to northern New England was extensive, however, on the basis of preliminary reports. One officer and two men were reported missing and believed drowned at Woods Hole, Mass. They were attached to the coast guard boat General Green which was engaged in rescue work in Buzzards Bay.

Coast-guard headquarters have had no communication with its station at Montauk Point, L. I., for several hours. Mobile communication units were dispatched to that area but roads, flooded and blocked with fallen trees, made passage nearly impossible.

As the storm passed northward, coast guard officials said that their personnel would cooperate with local authorities and the Red Cross in getting supplies to refugees. They also will assist in preparing temporary shelters in schools, auditoriums and public buildings for those driven from their homes.

Triplets Born to Mother, 16

TWO girls and a boy, each weighing about five pounds, were born to Mrs. Virginia Grimm, 16-year-old bride of a year, in a Steubenville, Ohio, hospital. The father, Paul Grimm, 19, drives a grocery truck and earns $10 a week.

SOME CHILDREN HAVE FINISHED FAIR POSTERS

Some Pickaway county school children have completed their exhibits for the annual Junior Fair Poster contest to be held in connection with the Pumpkin Show. As in former years, five premiums will be awarded in the high school division and grades five to eight, inclusive. Premiums are $2, $1.25, .75, .65 and .35 cents in each class.

The posters to win a premium must advertise the Junior Fair. Date of the Pumpkin Show and name of the building in which the Junior Fair will be held must be listed. Teachers and older persons may suggest ideas but the poster must be the handiwork of the pupils. The posters may be colored or illustrated either with original work or pictures taken from current publications. The official size is 14 by 22 inches. They must be displayed in a store window or some public place for at least 15 days before the celebration.

Each school is asked to select the five posters in each class for final judging. They are to be submitted to the county school office by noon, Oct. 19. Prize winning posters will be displayed in the Junior Fair and are not to be removed from the exhibit before 5 p. m. on Saturday, Oct. 22.

Judging will be on the basis of 50 points for advertising value, 30 points for originality of design, and 20 points for neatness.

The Turkish fez was supposedly so named from Fez, a city in Morocco, where the caps were first made.

plex fats which have great dietetic importance. The high calcium content of the beans is a chemical marvel because most other seeds contain only negligible quantities of this mineral. The soybeans also are rich in phosphorus. Soybeans contain about three times as much vitamin B as an equal weight of whole grain, rolled oats, or dried skim milk. They also supply vitamin G in larger quantities than equal amounts of eggs, milk, or lean beef.

Dr. Lyman says, "Because of the excellence of the soybean in human food values we may confidently expect it to grow in popularity. We also may expect to see special methods developed in preparing it for the table. The use of the soybean will increase in breads, breakfast cereals, as condiments and food flavorings, in sausages and meat loaves, and in many other food products."

Soybeans Have Value As Food, Chemist Declares

COLUMBUS, Sept. 22: Increased consumption of soybeans by human beings in the United States depends on overcoming some of the prejudices against this food which were formed a few years ago, according to Dr. J. F. Lyman, agricultural chemist, Ohio State University, who says the beans have excellent food values but lack the flavors desired by American people.

The Chinese have depended on soybeans to furnish food for their people for centuries but they have developed techniques of preparing the food which are not familiar to American housewives. Soy sauce is used in China to add flavor to their soybean dishes.

Dr. Lyman says the Chinese obtain the sauce by fermenting the beans but that chemists here could manufacture the condiment without fermentation. Soybeans lack vitamin A so Oriental people make good the deficiency by eating large quantities of green vegetables along with the soybeans.

Soybean flour now is used in this country to mix with wheat flour for bread baking. The mixtures makes whiter bread than wheat flour alone and the soybeans add vitamin B which is not present in bread made from patent flour. Bread containing soybean flour also keeps better and contains twice as much protein as bread made from 100 percent wheat flour.

Common Sense About Constipation

A doctor would tell you that the best thing to do with any ailment is to get at its cause. If you're constipated, don't fiddle with makeshift remedies. Find out what's giving you the trouble!

Chances are you won't have to look very far if you eat just the things most people do. Most likely you don't get enough "bulk". And "bulk" doesn't mean just a lot of food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is what you lack, your ticket is crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast. It contains the "bulk" you need plus the intestinal tonic, vitamin B-1, and it's not a drug, not a medicine! Eat All-Bran every day, drink plenty of water, and join the "regulars"! Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

WAITING FOR TROUBLE

A CARTOONIST sees the two groups of European powers now deciding the fate of Czechoslovakia as two men standing on the brink of a whirlpool labeled "Plunge Into War." Each is armed. Each bows to the other and waves him toward the pool. They are represented as saying to each other, "After you, my dear So and So."

A tragic picture. Sooner or later, one feels, they will be pushed into the pool. It is also a faintly hopeful picture. It suggests that no one has really forgotten the frightfulness and futility of the World War. Even the most belligerent groups hesitate to take the fateful step.

Hesitation is not enough. They cannot escape the catastrophe unless they turn away from the whirlpool and take positive, constructive action to end the economic and social conditions which provoke wars.

BLUEPRINT FOR HUMANITY

AN interesting and ambitious undertaking is that of the Society for the Psychological Study of Social Issues. It aims to discover important facts about the human race not yet noted, and "to serve the public as it goes through the economic wilderness which lies ahead, to the utterly different social order which will emerge two or three generations hence."

It will be different from this, no doubt. But "utterly" is a big word. It means completely, fully, in every respect. General history, however, gives an impression that all important types of social and economic order we know anything about have been tried in the past.

It may be, as a writer in the New York Times suggests, that "every one of the cruel and brutal and bewildering facts of human behavior now overrunning the world was noted by the applied psychologists who wrote Job and Ecclesiastes and Herodotus and Plutarch and Tacitus." How many of our earnest thinkers read them today?

THE RED CROSS

THE American Red Cross is preparing to ship 60,000 barrels of flour to Spain for impartial distribution among refugees. It will be handled by the American Friends Service Committee, already well organized and giving relief to civilians in both Nationalist and Loyalist Spain.

"It is the traditional desire of the American people," says Norman Davis, chairman of the Red Cross, "to help innocent victims of suffering wherever they may be and whatever the cause, and the American Red Cross has been their agent of mercy in this work for fifty-seven years."

This reminds many Americans of the huge relief work they supported during and following the World War when orphans were sheltered and hungry people

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN.

CHAMBERLAIN TERRORIZED

WASHINGTON — Ambassador Joe Kennedy is one of the few diplomats at the right hand of Prime Minister Chamberlain throughout the Czech-Nazi crisis. His reports, sent in great detail direct to the President, have been one reason for Roosevelt's hurried return to Washington. The tone of Kennedy's reports left no doubt that, in his opinion, Europe had little chance to escape war. Kennedy was particularly graphic in reporting the mountain-top conversation between Chamberlain and Adolf Hitler.

Highlight of this conference was Chamberlain's plea that war would jeopardize all that was fine in present-day civilization, that it would be so terrible that civilian populations would throw off their government, giving reign to utter chaos. Hitler's reply was something like this: "Perhaps your government will be overthrown, but not ours. We've changed our social order. You are still struggling to preserve capitalism, but both Mussolini and I have already brought about our revolutions. Your revolution is yet to come. And that is why you have to give in to us now."

This was the remark which caused Chamberlain to leave without taking dinner with Hitler as originally intended.

CLASS WARFARE

There is a lot more to Chamberlain's fears of governmental chaos in case of war than is generally realized on this side of the Atlantic.

Airplane bombing has been so perfected that war would bring Europe's finest cities the same stark ruin which has struck Madrid and Barcelona. It is doubtful whether civilian populations would tolerate any government save the most ruthless dictatorships. Communism or fascism would blossom overnight. General European war probably would mean the end of democracy—also of capitalism.

Knowledge of this is one reason behind the British Cabinet's effort to remain aloof from Czechoslovakia, let her go it alone if she continues to rebuff Germany.

NOTE — Insight into Chamberlain's present reasoning may be gathered from a remark he made to a colleague some time ago who was urging him to oppose General Franco in Spain.

"But don't you see?" Chamberlain is quoted as saying, "Franco is fighting for OUR class. If he loses, we shall have labor governments everywhere."

were fed, first in Belgium, later in Germany and wherever the need existed. The aid given by the Red Cross in recent floods and disasters in their own communities is bright in American memories.

Swift and efficacy of Red Cross assistance, but one which we wish our fellow human beings in other parts of the world would not put to the test of war so often.

One of the mysteries of life is why anybody should want to go 345.49 miles an hour, in any kind of contraption. You can't see anything, hear anything or feel anything—you can only say you've done it.

An automobile is said to have been invented which runs without gears or clutch. They'll never be really safe, though, till they run without drivers.

DIET AND HEALTH

How System Converts Food into Energy

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I AM STARTING this week a series of articles taking up the health and disorders of the body systematically. I shall treat in turn all the systems of the body—digestive, respiratory, circulatory, blood, bones, skin, nervous system. Anyone who wishes to save these articles will have a complete handbook, written in simple language, of physiology, hygiene and medical treatment.

From time to time, as important discoveries are announced, I will interrupt the series to discuss them, so that we can keep our medical science up-to-date.

Looking at the body as a whole, we can say that it is an organism designed to convert food and air into energy and into tissue. How the energy is expended, or what the body does with the tissue after it is formed, is not part of our concern as physiologists. That belongs to philosophy. Since the body converts food into energy we should begin with the system which prepares the food for that conversion—the digestive system.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest, only, and then only through his column.

It is a remarkable machine—the digestive system which changes food mechanically and chemically into a suitable form.

The mechanical change is brought about first by the teeth, partly by the tongue and partly by the churning movements of the stomach and intestine.

The chemical changes are brought about by the glands of secretion of the digestive system—first the salivary glands in the mouth, then the glands of the stomach wall, then the glands of the intestinal wall, then the pancreas and the liver.

We conceive of the digestive system then as a muscular tube with glands emptying their secretions into this tube. Both the movements of the tube and the action of the secretions are necessary to the function of digestion.

There is another change which the food undergoes in the digestive system which is due to the action of bacteria found in the intestine. This seems to be a function that has been added to Nature. It is not necessary to complete digestion, but the body has become used to it.

It is a remarkable thing to contemplate how the digestive system has adapted itself to the conditions of this world. It has developed secretions to digest exactly the fruits and food products of this planet. A human digestive system transferred to Mars would indeed be in a bad way.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS

A. M.: "Should a person who is anemic and has rheumatism cut down on their meats, sweets and starches? Or is a balanced diet better for them?"

Answer: Diet should not be restricted. Use balanced diet.

S. T. M.: "What can be done for itching ears?"

Answer: This common condition responds very well to skin sedatives that are useful in eczema—zinc oxide, resorcin ointment, etc.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin". AFRAID TO MARRY

HELEN WELSHIMER

Written for and Released by CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:

Judy Rogers, New York heiress, whose father has been wiped out in a financial crash, finds a job as a social secretary to the wealthy Abbey Boland. Heart-broken because Craig Denby, the man she loved, married another girl, she finds herself becoming interested in Ronald Birrell, brilliant young attorney from Tennessee who recently joined the firm of her father's lawyers. Judy's father has gone west with her stepmother while her own mother, remarried, is abroad. When Craig and his bride have a misunderstanding, it is Judy who brings them together. Abbey is making preparations for her marriage to a count. Judy observes that Ronald, one of the many guests at the Boland estate, takes an unusual interest in Abbey's affairs. Then Abbey appears, much embarrassed. Ronald phones Judy asking her to locate Abbey for him, stressing its importance.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 23

JUDY SAT at the telephone table in her low, green and white room, pansy brown eyes hurt and bewildered, a slim hand holding the telephone as though the instrument must become animate and explain the call, if the caller wouldn't.

"I'll hunt for Miss Boland," she said at last. "Perhaps she is riding or skating. There are lots of people here, and it's gay. It's so gay it makes my head ache, Ronald, she wanted to say. People keep saying brittle words that crack, and laughing brittle laughter that is hollow. I don't like it here. I want to go away."

"Listen very carefully, Judy," Ronald was saying, as though she were a child. "When you get Abbey, ask her to call me at my apartment. Either here or at my apartment. It's terribly important. I must see her, or at least talk to her."

"I'll find her," Judy promised. "I'll find her and give her your message, and all the time I'll wonder and wonder why you have grown fond of Abbey. I'll be an obedient secretary, Ronald, but one of these days very soon I'll be leaving here. This it won't be necessary for me to carry your messages to another girl. We Rogers' have our pride just as you have it in your mountains. I don't want to care for you—but I do."

She felt better when she had admitted the fact. Before, it had been crawling against the doorway of her mind, striving to come out. Now she had unlatched the gate, and here it was. It wouldn't hurt so much.

Judy upbraided herself for fickleness. How could she have loved Craig so short a time before, and now feel swift bells ringing when she saw a bright head flung back, and lips that quirked into a teasing smile? Wasn't she fickle, as fickle as those whom she had condemned because marriage was such a transient part of their lives? Yet she knew that there was a difference in the two loves. Craig had been a habit, and the habit had made the affection she bore him a routine. There had been love there, but fear had restrained it. If the love had been greater it would not have been so. Not once had she wanted to flee with Craig to some far corner of a sea, or a cliff on the side of the mountain. But she would have laughed at storms, warmed at hillside fires, if Ronald were there. She knew it in a flash so blind-ly that it left her breathless, as though she had been walking on an upward road too long.

Once she had thought Ronald liked her. That was before she had seen him with Abbey.

Then Judy consoled herself with another line of reasoning. If Ronald had cared for her, wasn't this shifting of his affections added proof that love had its day and died? Maybe there was not such a thing as a clean, strong fire that burned consistently. Maybe there was a lot of little fires, and pretty soon the human heart held piles of little ashes where love had been.

That had been her fear for the years at boarding school. It had checked her when she might have married Craig. Now it strengthened her when her heart was bruised by Ronald's attention to Abbey.

She found Abbey down in the swimming pool. The pool was a long one, and its waters were the green of its tiled basin. People in gay swim suits were frolicking there. Abbey was stretched lazily under a sun lamp. When Judy repeated the message, she sat up quickly.

"Is that all he said?"

"Yes, that's all."

"Call him for me, right away, will you, Miss Rogers?" I'll take the call in the booth down here."

So Judy got the law offices, heard Miss Martin's voice announce that she would summon Mr. Birrell, and a moment later heard his voice.

"Just a moment, Ronald," she exclaimed calmly. "I have Miss Boland for you."

The conversation was a long one. Once Judy saw Abbey gesture with a white hand as though the man must catch the emphasis of her words. When she came out, she called to Judy:

"Mr. Birrell is coming out on the next train. Will you ask the housekeeper to prepare the south guest room?"

A big party was scheduled at the estate for Christmas Eve. In some way this was connected with Ronald's insistence that he must talk to Abbey, Judy decided. A time or two that evening, when the guests were lounging carelessly around the long rooms where open wood fires burned cheerfully, Judy overheard a few words of conversation. She noted, too, that Abbey was careful to make everything casual—as though some business matter, not important but well to have out of the way, had brought him. With this party, the formal entertaining for the coming nuptials would be on.

Judy wondered if Ronald was trying to prevent Abbey from proceeding further with her wedding plans. She paused, quiet as a carved statue, at a new thought. The dowry had to be arranged. Of course! Ronald was objecting. For he knew when that step was taken the marriage was almost irrevocable, at least until such time as the two principals decided they had had enough of matrimony with each other.

A curious friendship had been developing between Count Philippe and Judy. She recognized his handsomeness, his wit, his humor which laughed at everyone, himself most of all. She did not approve of him in any way, but she found him interesting and likable. Mrs. Bedford would have made him a more acceptable wife than Abbey would, Judy thought. The widow understood the rules by which he lived, and could match them. Abbey, for all her self-confidence and arrogance, could not meet them.

Thus, it happened that Judy and Count Philippe talked gaily together, now and then. Judy was certain that he enjoyed her society more than that of the heiress, possibly because she did not ask anything of him. He could relax with her, not watching for signs of withdrawal or anger.

That was the situation on the night that Ronald came so hastily from the city. The guests went to bed about midnight. Judy stirred restlessly, trying to sleep. Ronald was under the same roof. That was good. Snow drifted against the windows. A dog barked. It barked again. It growled. Then there was a vast white stillness. It was too still. Judy got up, wrapped a warm dark blue velvet negligee around her, slipped her feet into beaded moccasins, and stepped through a window to the balcony on which her room opened. This was better. The sky was unusually bright to be so heavy with snow clouds. The sound was rough. A lighthouse blinked its lantern like a wicked red eye in the distance.

Judy leaned against a post, not thinking, not wondering. Because she was so silent the man who was creeping along the balcony did not know that she was there until he was almost upon her. He paused just as the brown eyes looked up. "Hands up!" It was a throaty whisper.

Judy held them up. She wasn't as frightened as she imagined such a situation would cause her to be. The man was a prowler, doubtless, and would swing down the lattice in a moment.

The man advanced a step instead.

"You're the Boland dame?" he asked.

In the evening did join the parade to Laurelville where the good women of the village served a real fried chicken dinner at the Community House. Yes, Laurelville has a Community House while we have nothing more than desire for one. A native told me that when the building was erected many persons objected to its size, declaring that it was far past any local need. Now, it is entirely too small on many occasions. Last night it was filled to overflowing and that was practically the condition of the scrivener when he finally left the table. I nominate the Laurelville women for the Cooking Hall of Fame right along with those of Williamsport and Ashville. My, oh my, how they do serve the food.

Bill Radcliff, who had been campaigning all day in the country and who was mud to his knees, did justice to it all. And so did Pres Hosier, Emerson Martin, Earl Lutz, Carl Hunter and Ed Wright, who all were within my sight when I was able to see over the food. Back home through the rain and directly home, finding the fireplace comforting and one of my favorite programs on the radio. At a reasonable hour did head for bed, first making a detour by way of the kitchen for a dose of soda as relief from having eaten entirely too much.

Dedication of Marker

Mrs. Orion King, Mrs. C. K. Hunsicker of Circleville, Mrs. G. P. Hunsicker, Mrs. John Hyde Dunlap, Sr., of the Williamsport community, Mrs. Robert Trimble and Mrs. Oscar Findley of Mt. Sterling were among those who attended the dedication ceremonies Wednesday in connection with the placing of a marker at the site of the home of Gen. Nathaniel Massie, near Bainbridge. A luncheon for 30 guests was served at the Chillicothe Country club preceding the program which was at 2:30 p. m. at the home of Gen. Massie, the founder of Chillicothe.

The program opened with the call to colors by Ernest Hess, bugler of American Legion, Chillicothe; advancement of colors, Mrs. Charles H. Karlan, state guardian of the colors, Springfield; invocation, the Rev. Russell Bready, Bainbridge; the Pledge of Allegiance led by Mrs. Karlan; address of welcome, Mrs. W. Vernon Barrett, regent of Lewis Morris chapter, Daughters of American Colonists, Chillicothe; response, Mrs. Charles L. Eshelman, state chairman of marking historical sites, Cleveland Heights; introduction of Ernest Rockhold, owner of the Massie Farm near Bainbridge; address, Nathaniel Massie, J. R. Gregg; address, Mrs. Elbe H. Johnson, state regent, D. A. C., of Gambier; unveiling of marker, followed by the presentation by Mrs. Johnson; acceptance of marker, Mr. Rockhold; benediction, the Rev. Mr. Bready; taps, Mr. Hess. The bronze marker was set in a large boulder on the farm which was the home of Gen. Massie. It told of the outstanding incidents in his life. The marker was erected by the Ohio State society, D.A.C.

STARS SAY—

For Thursday, September 22 AN UNUSUALLY interesting and eventful day is forecast from the major planetary and mutual aspects. There may be much high tension in connection with putting over important projects or entirely new propositions of a rather original or revolutionary scope. This may cause radical changes in plans, with fresh fields of operation, new agreements, methods and contacts. Young people, social activity and adventure, perhaps romance, are involved.

If This Is Your Birthday Those whose birthday it is may prepare themselves to meet a year of much definite progress in the way of making new affiliations in connection with launching major projects of important scope. This may call for radical change in contacts and environs, with a reorganization of plans and the meeting of strange or unusual factors for success. Young persons, probably social or romantic associations, may assist to promote adventures and plans of original worth.

A child born on this day may have talent. Strange adventures and environs, with personal prestige, cleverness and high ambitions, may contribute to its success in life.

Hank's Effort To Pass Ruth Features Leagues

The most alluring situation in the baseball world today wasn't the fact that the New York Yankees have lost six straight or that the Pittsburgh Pirates were winning the National league pennant in a hotel lobby but Hank Greenberg's heroic attempt to dethrone Babe Ruth as the sultan of swat.

With 54 homers in 143 games, Greenberg was all even with Ruth's record-breaking schedule in 1927 when he set the major league standard of 60—a mark most baseball men agreed never would be topped.

Greenberg must hit seven homers in 11 games to set a new record of 61. If the tall, dark-visaged Bronx boy who plays first base for the Detroit Tigers can "get hot" like he did in late July he'll better Ruth's mark. In five days, from July 26-31, he hit eight homers in six games.

Ruth was pretty torrid himself from the day of his 54th homer until he broke his own record of 59. He clouted six homers in seven games from Sept. 21 through Sept. 30. During September, Ruth hit 17 homers. Greenberg has hit eight this month.

In connection with Greenberg's challenge to Ruth's record, it is interesting to note that many believe the Detroit slugger hits a ball harder than the Bambino did. Harry Hellmann former Tiger out-fielder who won four American league batting titles, says that a ball leaving Greenberg's bat travels faster than balls did off the Babe's mace. Hellmann said that Ruth got more lift to his drives but that Greenberg hits more balls on a line. Greenberg's tremendous power comes from his forearms and shoulders. He can lean on a ball with his long arms and height.

Greenberg hit No. 54 yesterday with two men on base off Randall Gumpert in the first game of a doubleheader. He drove in six runs as the Tigers won, 8-6. They also won the nightcap, 3-0, an abbreviated five-inning affair in which Boots Postfenger allowed only three hits.

COUNTRY CLUB HOST TO CADDIES SATURDAY NOON

The Pickaway Country Club will be host Saturday to all youths who have caddied during the Summer. An 18 hole tournament will be conducted for the caddy championship, handicap prizes will be offered and a dinner will be served at noon.

ANOTHER SOPH
GRIDDER TAKES
SCHMIDT'S EYE

COLUMBUS, Sept. 22—(UP)—Sophomore Al Zuchegno, the 167-pound Midnight Express from Dover, held the spotlight at Ohio stadium today after his promotion to the varsity fullback post.

The speedy, underslung sophomore celebrated his elevation to the Red team backfield with a sparkling exhibition of fast, shifty ball carrying Wednesday climaxed by a 40-yard touchdown run in the first scrimmage of the week.

Although the dark-complexioned Zuchegno does not boast the weight or experience of other fullback aspirants, he has taken the eye of Coach Francis Schmidt because of his speed—a fundamental ingredient of Schmidt's open-style offense. The Dover youth has a fiery spirit that has caught the favor of onlookers.

While he may be forced to give way before the greater experience of the veteran Johnny Rabb insofar as a starting post is concerned, the Midnight Express should see considerable service in the Bucks' tough opening struggle against Indiana.

His performance was not the only pleasing exhibition of the scrimmage. Co-Captain Carl Kaplanoff, Bucyrus, bulky tackle, was a tower of strength in the Red line and showed some hard blocking and speed in clearing the way for Zuchegno's long run. Frank Zadoworney, junior halfback from Cleveland, who has held the Red right halfback job since the beginning of practice, and Wendell Lohr, senior end from Massillon, also displayed flashy form.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 22—(UP)—The St. Paul Saints climaxed a courageous comeback today in the first round playoffs in the American Association and were ready to meet Milwaukee for the right to play Kansas City in the finals.

The Saints evened the series last night, 9 to 0, Ray Phelps setting down the Brewers with three hits, all singles. The big right-hander pitched his best game of the season, allowing only one base on balls and striking out four batsmen.

The victory last night squared accounts with the Brewers who had an advantage of 3 to 1 in games before the Saints came back to win two straight.

Buck Marrow, the Milwaukee moundman, was reached for 14 hits.

RAZZLE - DAZZLE EXPECTED FOR FRIDAY'S GAME

Ernie Roush, Worthington
Coach, Learned Game
Under Schmidt

Circleville high's Tigers are looking for almost any kind of an attack Friday evening when the Worthington varsity invades the local ballfield to battle under the lights. The Worthington lads may use power, they may use end sweeps, and above all they may try plenty of "razzle dazzle" of the type that is used at Ohio State university. The Columbus suburbanites are coached by Ernie Roush, chunky Black Lick resident who learned his griddon tactics under Francis Schmidt at the Buckeye school.

Roush is serving his first year at Worthington after much success at Bremen, Fairfield county. Bremen he developed a passing attack that was a honey, so grid fans in Circleville are anticipating an aerial game with down field laterals a possibility.

Worthington Strong

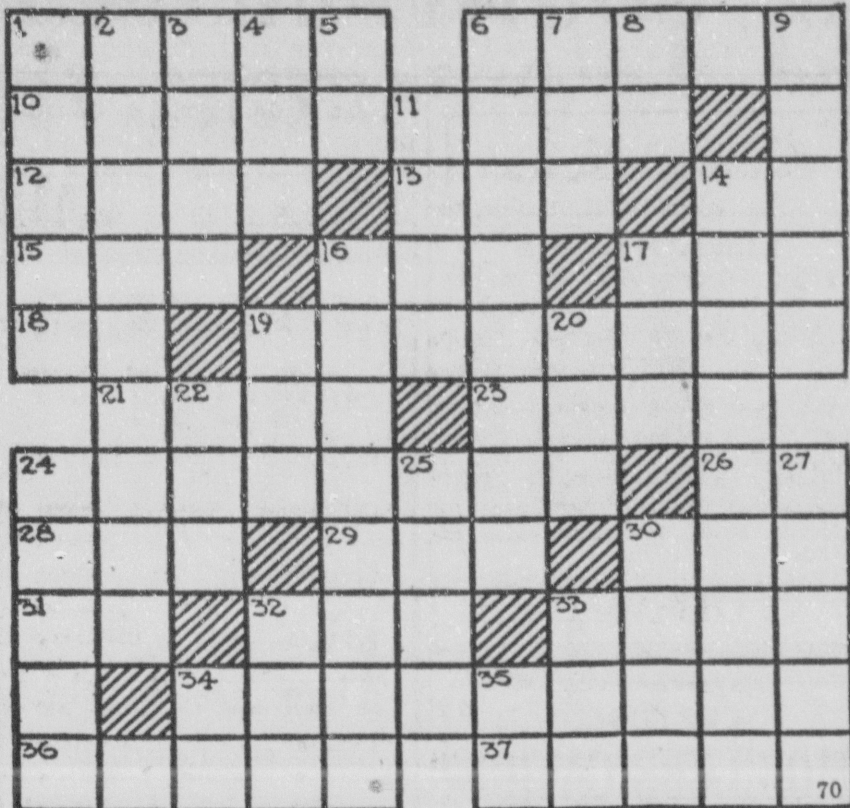

The starting Worthington team will be strong. The fact that Delaware was unable to score in the first and third periods against the villagers proves that the Worthington varsity was good enough to cope with the college town crew until size and reserve strength proved too much.

Coach Roy Black is leaving nothing undone in an effort to find his strongest team. The backfield will likely be the same that started last week against West Jefferson, but practices this week have made that backfield look a lot different. Offensive blocking has been stressed, the Tiger mentor giving many hours of attention to this important phase of the game. Paul Walters will be at the signal post, Frank Woodward and Johnny Noggle will be at the halves, the former playing safety and doing the punting, and Marvin Jenkins will be at fullback. The ends will be Don Jackson and Bill Heffner, with Art Rooney and Harold Hill at tackles. Gene Arledge will play left guard with Roy Birchwell taking the leading contender's place in the scrap for the other guard job.

This last playing his first year of football has size and natural ability and during the last few days has started to show fast development. Dub Nelson will play center.

The game is scheduled at 8 o'clock.

ELKS URGE COUNCIL TO ERECT TRAFFIC LIGHTS ON S. COURT STREET

PROTECTION OF SCHOOL PUPILS CITED BY LODGE

Devices May Be Placed at Mill And Corwin To Halt Speeding Cars

EXPENSE TO BE SHARED

Committee, City Officials Discuss Suggestion Wednesday Eve

Traffic lights may be installed soon on Court street at Mill and Corwin streets for the protection of High School and Corwin street pupils.

A committee from the B. P. O. Elks lodge, consisting of T. A. Renick, A. L. Wilder and Andrew Thomas, met with council Wednesday evening to present a plan for the lights offered by the fraternal organization.

In compliance with a national safety program of the lodge, the Circleville order has offered to contribute sufficient funds for at least one light. The committee said the organization will contribute up to $100.

It was suggested that the lights be used only when school children were on the streets. They could be turned on or off by the school janitor.

Councilmen referred the lodge's offer to the safety committee. It is expected that the lodge committee, councilmen and the board of education will cooperate.

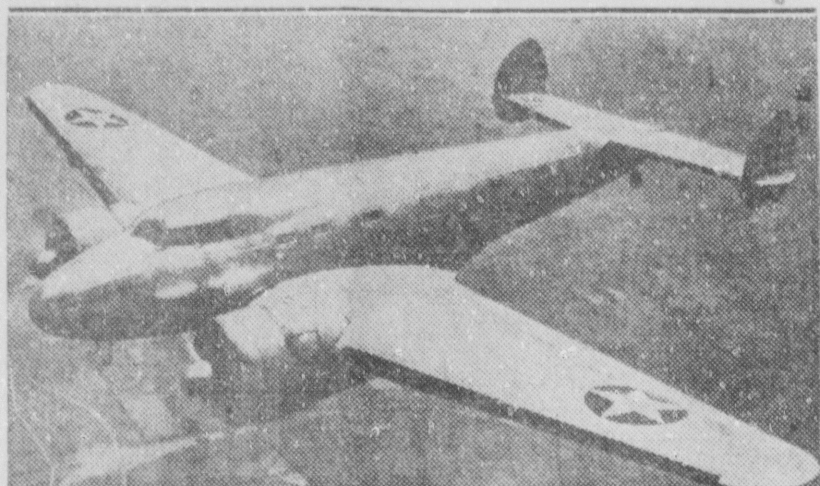

Numerous complaints have been made about speeding on S. Court street. The erection of lights in the school zone would slow down traffic and afford greater protection to children crossing the highway.

JUNIOR FAIR BOARD HAS DISCUSSION WEDNESDAY

The Junior Fair board met Wednesday evening in the county school offices to discuss final plans for the exhibition.

The discussion included space allotments, obtaining premium ribbons and filling out entry blanks. The fair will be conducted along the same lines as in previous years.

Gotham Isolated After Storm Lashes Suburbs

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(UP)—New York City was isolated from many of its suburbs and surrounded by desolation today after a hurricane and tidal wave.

Long Island, to the East, was strewn from one end to the other with wreckage. Nine were known dead, more than 100 were missing. Whole Summer colonies of homes, hotels and boardwalks, were demolished.

Towns, populated mostly by city commuters, were without lights, telephones or drinking water.

Train service was paralyzed, roads blocked by timbers and fallen trees.

In New Jersey, to the South, and in upstate New York, the destruction was less severe but more widespread.

New York City itself had been on the western fringe of the severe winds. The center of the hurricane, with winds of almost 90-mile velocity swirling around a small vacuum core, passed inland, northbound from the Tropics, 50 miles East of here at about 4 p. m. yesterday. The weather observer at Babylon on Long Island estimated that the exact center had passed up the main street of the town at exactly 5 o'clock.

Had the center shifted slightly to the left, there might have been a calamity in this city of 7,000,000 persons. As it was, Manhattan and Brooklyn were battered by a 75-mile wind and four and one-half inches of rain which crippled electrical service, halted subway trains and left two vast districts in darkness for two hours.

New York City proper suffered no casualties, however. Many were stranded in town throughout the night, unable to reach their suburban homes due to the closing of roads and stoppage of Long Island trains.

Ocean liners were delayed and imperiled.

A ferry boat, with 20 passengers and a crew of five had been miss-

STATE DRIVING LAW REVISION SOUGHT IN OHIO

CLEVELAND, Sept. 22.—(UP)—An amendment to the State Drivers License law empowering the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to suspend or revoke driving privileges will be sought by the Ohio Safety Council at the 1939 session of the legislature.

The power is vested only in the courts at present and there is much variation in its application, according to Harold H. Gorman, general counsel for the council. He said that Ohio's 8291 suspensions and revocations in the last 11 months against 2,700,000 licenses issued was not high enough to indicate adequate enforcement in comparison with other state averages.

Thorough new drivers examinations and elimination of habitual drunkards are administrative concerns and should not be permitted to "clutter up" the laws, Gorman said.

Suspension or revocation of licenses is permissible for certain offenses under the present law.

It is mandatory for convictions of motor vehicle manslaughter, driving while under the influence of liquor or narcotics, failure to stop after an accident, perjury in license application of felonies involving the use of a motor vehicle.

There were 48,341 convictions in courts of record during the 11-month period, according to state records. But only 10,743 were offenses in which withdrawal of driving privileges is mandatory or customary.

Almost half of the total convictions were made in Cleveland. Columbus was second and Dayton third.

ing 12 hours and there were grave fears for its fate.

Fire island, off the South coast of Long Island, suffered terrific damage. Staten island, comprising one of the city's five boroughs, also was hard hit. There were few casualties at either place, however.

The extent of the havoc on Long Island was not realized until early today. No town on the 150-mile Long Island escaped. The crashing waves had changed the contour of the island in places. The beaches were littered everywhere with broken boats, timbers, tangled wires and furniture. The ocean teemed with driftwood. Rescuers struggled through the surf in boats, hunting missing boats and missing men.

CONSTANCE BENNETT

Constance Bennett will pay a call on Don Ameche, Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy when she guest stars in the broadcast over the NBC red network at 8 p. m. next Sunday. Other features of the show are Nelson Eddy, Dorothy Lamour, the Stroud Twins and Robert Armstrong's orchestra.

In this program too Nelson Eddy will sing the number for which he probably receives the most requests from listeners—"Ah Sweet Mystery of Life" from Victor Herbert's "Naughty Marietta."

Miss Bennett will star with Don Ameche as her leading man in a one act play as the dramatic highlight of the show. Later she will bring her friendship with Charlie McCarthy up to date.

PART OF SCHOOL SHOP IN JUNIOR FAIR EXPLAINED

The shop department of the Junior Fair is for the purpose of arousing the interest of more boys to become skilled workmen, and to make the boys familiar with mechanical drawing, wood-working and general mechanical and metal working. All this aids more shops with better equipment in the county schools, where more and better types of furniture can be made.

If a boy, desires to make a table or a lamp or any other article, and it is admired by other people, it gives him encouragement and a desire to carry his work further.

If the boy is taught how to sharpen his tools, and taught the proper tool to use for the particular type of work he is doing, it will help him to make a better article. He should also be taught to properly care for his tools while he is using them and after he uses them. This not only lengthens their durability, but it will aid him in making a better article and also teach him neatness.

Phillip Reichelderfer

will be given soup beans, rice, raisins and grapefruit juice.

Due to the amount of supplies being received by the relief department the former Pickaway Garage, N. Pickaway street, has been rented as a warehouse.

FAMILY OF NINE TAKEN BACK TO WEST VIRGINIA

An indigent family of nine persons was removed Thursday from Walnut township to its former home at South Side, W. Va., by the county relief department. This family is the eighteenth removed from the county by the relief department.

Distribution of surplus commodities to city clients will be held Friday from 8 to 11 a. m. They
